INTRODUCTION.

The emigration of the Huguenots in the seventeenth century is one of the most important events of modern history. It largely prepared the way, a century later, for the overthrow of the old régime in France; it greatly enriched, morally, intellectually and materially, every country in which the exiles took refuge; and it is the true source of the liberal character which has since marked the public polity of Europe.

Besides this general significance, the Huguenot emigration possessed two features which distinguished it from all similar events known in history, and which render its careful study and commemoration eminently proper and instructive. The Huguenots, in the first place, did not, like so many common adventurers, leave their country to seek fortune abroad. It was with them a question of mass or exile; and nearly a million of men, women and children, comprising the best elements of the population of France, forsook their country at the call of conscience, in order to enjoy under more liberal rulers the indisputable privilege of a free and open Bible. In the next place, the course of their emigration, which led them to wherever the principle of religious toleration had obtained a foothold, stamped their movement with almost universal significance. Large bodies of Huguenots thus settled themselves in various parts of Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Great Britain, America, etc., and through these settlements they have shaped, directly or indirectly, the character of modern civilization to a very important extent.

Strangely enough, the history of this important movement has never been adequately written. The only work which professes to speak of it in detail is that of M. Charles Weiss, which appeared in 1853. But this history, excellent as it is in many respects, is very deficient in life, and ought to be rewritten and completed in the light of recent researches. Unfortunately the same is true of most of the special histories which treat of the settlement of the Huguenots in the several countries of Europe, and aside from the invaluable history of the late Rev. Dr. C. W. Baird, it is not too much to say that a few hundred pages would easily comprise all that has been published of any real value on the history of the Huguenots in America. This dearth of satisfactory histories of the Huguenot emigration is no doubt due to the difficulties of the task. The subject is very extensive, and the gathering of the material is necessarily slow, arduous and expensive, and much remains to be done.

Impressed with the importance of these facts, a few gentlemen of Huguenot descent met on the 13th of April, 1883, at the house of the Hon. John Jay to consider the best way of organizing a Huguenot Society, the object of which should be the stated commemoration of the principal events in the history of the Huguenots, and the collection of materials for a memorial history of the Huguenots in this country. At this meeting, a preliminary organization was reached, a general basis for the proposed Society was adopted, and a committee was appointed to prepare a constitution and by-laws to be submitted to the Society at its next meeting. At the call of Mr. Edward F. de Lancey, chairman of this committee, a second meeting of the Society was held May 29th, 1883, for the reception of the report of the committee, and for the permanent organization of the new Society. On the day appointed, some fifty ladies and gentlemen, representing nearly all the original Huguenot settlements in America, met in the Hall of the New York Historical Society and happily effected the object of the meeting. A constitution and by-laws were adopted, and officers elected for the current year.

THE HUGUENOT SOCIETY OF AMERICA, which was for so many years a desideratum among the existing American societies, is now a permanent and definite organization, subject only to such changes as time and experience will no doubt suggest. It began its existence under very favorable circumstances, and is called to a very useful future. To accomplish its true ends it must become more and more a national Society, with the largest possible membership; for then, and then only, will future historians be able, by utilizing the materials collected by its members, to render due justice to the Huguenot element in the development of American character and institutions. And surely the name and the memories left us by our Huguenot ancestors, the rôle which many of their descendants have played in the history of their country, the position to which many others have attained in literature, science and the arts are sufficiently bright and glorious to entitle them to be rescued from perishable family papers and other similar documents, in order to be inscribed upon the more enduring pages of history.

To realize this laudable purpose, three things are particularly desirable:

First, That every Huguenot family in America should be represented by at least one of its members in the Society. This would give the Society a really national character, and would enable it to take rank with the most important societies in this or any other country.

Secondly, That each family represented in this Society should have carefully composed, for the use of the Society a genealogy or history of the family, with exact copies of all important papers in the possession of the family, and a record of such facts as may be known in regard to the history of other Huguenot families. All these contributions should be placed in the archives of the Society, and would serve as most valuable materials for a general history of the Huguenots in America.

Thirdly, That the library already formed, "composed of all obtainable books, monographs, pamphlets, manuscripts, etc., relating to the Huguenots should be increased from time to time by purchase and gifts." For this the Society must largely depend upon the generosity of its members and friends, who are earnestly invited to donate to the Society any book, pamphlet or manuscript of interest treating of Huguenot genealogy or history. The Society has now a room in a fire-proof building forming a safe depository for its valuable papers.

FAMILY NAMES OF HUGUENOT REFUGEES TO AMERICA,
REPRESENTED IN THE MEMBERSHIP OF THE SO-CIETY: WITH NAMES OF MEMBERS CLAIMING DESCENT THROUGH THE SEVERAL ANCESTRAL LINES.

The place where the family name—as Huguenot is first met with, precedes the family name. The settlement in America follows it.

Authentic information on these points, with authorities, is most earnestly solicited, that the next edition of this List may be historically correct.
